

Scientific publishing

Dear editors and authors,

you are researching, teaching or working in the humanities and social sciences? You would like to secure visibility for the results of your work? You would like them to be noticed and cited within your academic community and expert audiences in institutions, educational practice, policy making and businesses – nationally as well as internationally?

We would like to support you in this. We will add our professional resources and experience in scientific publishing to your content-related expertise. As an author, you have the opportunity to publish your work as a quality-assured publication in one of our established publication series. As editors, we will plan new publication series, journals, textbooks or digital projects with you.

While we are concerned with the international visibility and usability of your contents, you can fully concentrate on your academic work. We carry out every publication project in an open, innovative, personal and committed manner.

Call us on +49 521 91101-0 or send an email to publizieren@wbv.de. We will be happy to talk to you in person.

Yours,

Vanessa Leppert
Publishing Director

Publishing in Open Acces

As an author or editor, you can publish with us through „Gold Open Access“ (freely accessible from the date of publication), „Green Open Access“ (access after expiration of the embargo period), in combination with „Print as a Service“ (print edition provided as a service), as „Print-on-Demand“ or even as „online first“ publications (contributions, e.g. to an anthology, appear successively in Open Access before the print edition is published).

Since 2012 Open Access publications are being made available online in our wbv Open Access library and we are cooperating with renowned repositories. This way we ensure the widest possible dissemination of scientific publications.

Publish your dissertation

wbv Publikation is one of the leading academic publishers in the German-speaking area. With us, you can publish your dissertation in accordance with all the standards that are required of cientific publications.

We support you in the writing process, ensure optimal data and text editing and offer you a wide range of publishing options.

Authors can publish with wbv in more than 80 renowned publication series in the fields of the humanities and social sciences. Dissertations are also published in many of these series.

Contact us or write to us and we will be happy to discuss with you which publication options will be most suitable for your work.

Manuscript & Collaboration

Advice

We advise you in particular

- on the preparation of your manuscript
- on publishing in print and digital media including Open Access
- on funding opportunities
- on organisational matters regarding anthologies published with other authors

Quality assurance

Every wbv publication is being taken care of by an editor throughout the whole process.

Editors check data and content, organise the production process – including any reviews – so that it is completed on schedule and arrange for the distribution of the publication to the appropriate target group. Series editors vouch for the quality of the publication with their name.

Publishing contract

You receive legal security through a publishing contract. Your copyrights are protected, in print and digitally!

Your content will receive a professionally designed layout.

Metadata & Production

Proofreading & Editing

Your texts will be professionally proofread and/or edited.
Spelling and revisions according to scientific standards are agreed upon with you.

Layout & Design

Figures, data and statistics provide information which needs to be accessible to readers.

With comprehensible infographics and clearly designed tables or diagrams, we make the information behind the figures visible. Your content is presented in a contemporary scientific layout which at the same time allows for pleasant reading and promotes reception. Of course the ebook will have an accessible design.

Metadata

Your work is provided with extensive metadata.

In collaboration with national and international cooperation partners your work reaches repositories, libraries and the booktrade.

We reach your audience.

3

Distribution & Marketing

Distribution channels

At wbv Publikation our committed team of marketing and sales experts ensures that your publication becomes part of the academic discourse. We reach target groups via the appropriate distribution channels – we know where and how they obtain information and address them directly.

Conferences & Presentations

Your work is presented with physical copies at events as well as in conference materials, offline and online.

We are present at numerous conferences and congresses throughout the year and address target groups effectively.

Promotional materials & Social media

You will receive promotional materials for your own use. On request we can also send out review copies. And of course we support you or your work in social media.

Benefit from a strong network!
